IMPACT REPORT

We recognise women in all their diversity

Efforts to advance gender equality have not lifted all women equally. By highlighting the specific demographics of people who experience exclusion, we increase their visibility and boost understanding of how exclusion is experienced within organisations and in society more generally.

Inclusive gender equality recognises that our work must consider and engage all genders in global efforts to achieve gender equality, with a particular focus on elevating and advancing currently under-represented and marginalised groups.

At its core, the intent is to create respectful, safe and inclusive cultures of belonging for all.

Throughout this document, the terms 'women', 'women in all their diversity', 'women experiencing intersecting inequalities' and 'diverse people' are used. Women includes both cis and trans women.

In referring to women experiencing intersecting inequalities, we mean the structural inequalities and multiple, intersecting and compounding barriers to inclusion and progression faced by:

- ◆ women from socio-economically disadvantaged backgrounds
- ◆ First Nations women
- ◆ ethnically and/or racially marginalised women
- ◆ single parents and sole caregivers
- ◆ women with disability (visible or invisible)
- ◆ neurodivergent women
- ◆ LGBTQ+ women

When referring to diverse people, we mean the wealth and variety of people and aspects of identity that broadly make up Australia's population.

Acknowledgment of Country

Champions of Change Coalition acknowledges Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples as the Traditional Custodians of the lands on which we work and live. We pay our respects to Elders past and present and commit to building a brighter future together. Our head office is located on the lands of the Gadigal people of the Eora Nation. The 'Eora people' was the name given to the coastal Aboriginal peoples around Sydney. 'Eora' means 'here' or 'from this place'.

The workplaces of our people and Champions of Change Coalition Members span the nation and the world.

We extend our respects to the Traditional Custodians of all the lands on which we and our Members work and live.

The Champions of Change Coalition commissioned Yuwaalaraay and Muruwari artist Kirsten Gray to create an artwork that reflects our broad commitment to reconciliation and equality and particularly to the rights of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women. The artwork, entitled 'Be the change' showcases the work taking place all across the country by the Champions of Change Coalition (at the centre) and our countless partners, communities and individuals in the name of moving our country forward towards gender equality.

The stories and history of country can be seen in this piece and are the basis of the work the Coalition undertakes with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples – informed by our ways of knowing and doing. Two sides of a coolamon sit atop and at the bottom of this piece signifying the importance of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women and the ongoing role they continue to play in the life of their families and nation alike.

Foreword

Dear colleagues,

Champions of Change Coalition continues to lead with practical actions and innovative solutions to ensure that gender equality is built into our future, benefiting all people and every sector of the economy.

Since establishment by our Founder Elizabeth Broderick AO in 2010, Members and their teams have invested their time, resources and expertise towards our vision for inclusive gender equality in the workplace.

This year, we have seen strong progress across the Coalition advancing more women into leadership underpinned by a collective commitment to creating workplaces that are safe, respectful and inclusive for all employees.

Key focus areas for 2024 included:

- ◆ Working with Members to better understand, publicly report and take individual and collective action to close gender pay gaps.
- ◆ Developing a new gender equality dashboard enabling Members to better monitor and measure progress and identify more targeted actions to accelerate change.
- ◆ Developing our sector-based Champions of Change Groups to help ensure women are equally contributing to and benefiting from key sectors of the economy.
- ◆ Completing a 10-year review of progress of the Champions of Change Sport Group including specific "calls to action" towards gender equality in sport within a generation.
- ◆ Developing targeted strategies to build gender equal talent pipelines to support the energy transition.
- ◆ Consolidating and sharing a decade of experience using inclusive sponsorship programs to develop gender equal and diverse leadership pipelines.
- ◆ Creating a consistent and contemporary articulation of everyday respect in the workplace to help foster cultures of care, safety and belonging for all.
- ◆ Releasing a ground-breaking framework to help ensure inclusive gender equality is built into decision and design processes from the outset across organisational systems.
- ◆ Continuing to lead workplace efforts to end gender-based violence, including a new focus on preventing the weaponisation of products and services and Coalition-wide participation in the 16 Days of Activism campaign.
- ◆ Collaborating with international partners to advance gender equality through participation in forums such as the UN Commission on the Status of Women, UN Global Compact Leader's Summit and the World Economic Forum Global Futures Council.
- ◆ Embedding intersectionality to ensure our strategies benefit all women, particularly those with intersecting identities.

We continued our 'Member Briefings' series, providing leaders and teams access to local and international expertise on topics such as the state of gender equality globally, closing gender pay gaps, playing our part to end gender-based violence, and strategies to engage more people in efforts to advance gender equality.

In September, we launched a new Rail Champions of Change Group, comprising 10 CEOs from across Australia's rail sector. The Group is dedicated to attracting diverse talent, fostering inclusive work environments, and ensuring women's leadership is central to delivering the $154 billion rail project pipeline. Priorities include developing female leaders at every level, creating workplaces where everyone feels safe, respected, and valued, and inspiring more women and girls to pursue careers in the rail industry.

Our 2025 priorities include:

- ◆ advancing inclusive gender equality across all industries, especially in high value, high impact sectors of the future.
- ◆ sharpening our focus on data-driven strategies, with an emphasis on the most impactful strategies to achieve gender equality and close gender pay gaps.
- ◆ creating cultures of care, respect, safety and belonging for all employees.
- ◆ demonstrating the value of systematic and intentional inclusive gender equality by design.

We sincerely thank our Board, Convenors, Members and the teams, Implementation Leaders, Key Partners, Stakeholders, and the Champions of Change Institute Team for their collaboration, creativity, and commitment. Your contributions have been instrumental in advancing our mission, and we are honoured to have you as colleagues in this critical work.

Board updates

This year, we welcomed new Board Members, including Andrew Colvin and Janelle McMaster, and our new Chair, Andrew Stevens, also a founding Member of the Coalition. Their expertise and passion for equity will help us navigate the challenges ahead and identify new opportunities for impact.

We extend our deepest gratitude to our former Chair, Janet Menzies, for her invaluable contributions. Her dedication has been instrumental in shaping the Coalition's direction and outcomes, and we are profoundly thankful for her service. Janet will continue her involvement on the Board and as Co-Convenor of our STEM and Health Champions of Change Group.

We acknowledge the retirement of Ann Sherry AO as a Convenor and sincerely thank Ann for her invaluable guidance and dedication throughout her decade-long work with the Coalition.

We continue to see that meaningful and lasting progress on gender equality in the workplace is driven by leaders who are committed to action – within their organisations, across sectors, and at a national level.

From innovative strategies that empower all employees to balance work and care responsibilities, to embedding safety and respect into every workplace interaction, these efforts are creating tangible changes that benefit everyone.

What's most inspiring is the intentional and systematic integration of gender equality into decisions and design from the outset, making equality the foundation of everything we do and deliver.

As we look ahead, our focus remains clear: fostering gender-equal, inclusive, respectful workplaces that ensure all employees can thrive, with leaders stepping up to make this vision a reality.

About the Champions of Change Coalition

Who we are

The Champions of Change Coalition is a globally recognised leadership strategy to achieve inclusive gender equality in the workplace.

The Champions of Change Coalition (the Coalition) was established in 2010, built on the vision of our Founder, then Sex Discrimination Commissioner, Elizabeth Broderick AO.

The strategy engages leaders with power and influence to step up as a high-profile Coalition, aiming to achieve inclusive gender equality in workplaces by 2030.

Today, the Coalition comprises more than 260 CEO-level leaders with operations across the world. We work with corporate, government, academic and community leaders, peak industry bodies and associations who want to achieve rapid, sector-wide change.

The work of the Coalition is backed by a successful methodology for advancing inclusive gender equality and creating the conditions and cultures that enable all to thrive.

The strategy engages Members as 'champions' not because they are perfect, but because they publicly commit to leading practical, constructive and disruptive actions to accelerate change.

Many of the actions developed and implemented as part of the strategy over 14 years are now globally accepted standards for organisations wishing to become employers of choice.

What we do

Our mission is working together to create cultures of care, respect, safety and belonging, enabling all to prosper.

Our strategy is to innovate, disrupt, and serve as an accelerator for organisations who prioritise the human rights, business, social and economic value of inclusive gender equality.

We do this through a unique approach where CEOs and Board-level leaders are personally engaged in developing and delivering innovative strategies and initiatives to accelerate change.

Being accountable is a cornerstone of our strategy—we stand behind our numbers, and share our insights, lessons, outcomes and resources widely for others to adopt and adapt.

We continue to focus on personal engagement and organisational leadership. At the request of Members, we have extended our approach to working with our supply chain and partners, across the Coalition and at a national and societal level to increase the scale, reach and impact of our work. This includes prioritising inclusive gender equality by design, rather than fixing unequal systems of the past or 'bolting on' solutions when inequalities are identified.

We are applying an intersectional lens across all our work, recognising that our strategy must benefit all women, while ensuring that everything we do is informed by experts in the women's sector.

CEO and board-level leaders innovating to accelerate change

Commission on the Status of Women

The United Nations Commission on the Status of Women (CSW) is the chief global policy-making body on women's rights and gender equality, built on the collective efforts of women to drive change. The CSW attracts more than 10,000 participants from around the world—including leaders from government, civil society and business—to the UN headquarters for its annual two-week session. It offers a rich program of events related to a wide range of gender equality priorities and leading practice initiatives.

Each year, the Coalition sends a delegation of Members to the CSW session as part of our long-term commitment to listen to and learn from the women's sector, including women's rights defenders. Within the CSW forum, the Champions of Change strategy presents a differentiating and disruptive approach to engaging leaders and the public and private sectors on gender equality.

This global engagement opportunity is enhanced by a close partnership with the official Australian Government delegation to the CSW session, and connections with global women's human rights advocates. Our work and impact attract wide interest from governments, UN agencies, civil society and businesses involved in the forum.

Delegation engagement goals are to:

- ◆ listen to and learn from the collective efforts and experience of women driving change internationally and other innovative approaches to inform the work of the Coalition
- ◆ share the Champions of Change approach and practical actions for engaging leaders and engaging across sectors on inclusive gender equality as a contribution to a global, action-oriented discussion
- ◆ profile the Champions of Change initiative and its Members with a view to accelerating progress toward gender equality internationally.

Champions of Change Coalition delegations have attended CSW sessions in 2018, 2019, 2023 and 2024. The 2024 event was the 68th session and is known accordingly as CSW68.

At CSW68, our delegation participated in 14 Champions of Change Coalition events, covering topics such as our work on closing the gender pay gap, inclusive design, and promoting cultures of respect and safety in fire and emergency services.

The following Members participated in numerous official CSW68 events:

- ◆ Paul Jenkins, Global CEO, Ashurst (National 2016 Group)
- ◆ Virginia Briggs, CEO, MinterEllison (National 2015 Group)
- ◆ Daniel Westerman, CEO, AEMO (Energy Group)
- ◆ Melanie Evans, CEO, ING (National 2016 Group)
- ◆ Scott Wyatt, CEO, Viva Energy (National 2017 Group)
- ◆ Michael Morgan, Deputy Commissioner, Fire Rescue Victoria (Fire and Emergency Group)
- ◆ Natalie MacDonald, CEO, Country Fire Authority Victoria (Fire and Emergency Group)
- ◆ Carlene York APM, Commissioner, NSW State Emergency Service (Fire and Emergency Group)
- ◆ Navid Fazil, CEO, Interloop (Pakistan Group)

Members return from their immersion in CSW events further inspired to lead progress on inclusive gender equality. They see how their work is geopolitically important, how it is accelerating change, and how it helps to safeguard and promote the rights of women and girls globally.

I came away from the experience in awe of the advocates who tirelessly work on these issues everyday ... but even more committed than ever to advancing gender equality at AEMO, in the energy industry, and in society more broadly.

This is not going to work without business leading the way. It's so important for us as leaders to change the dynamic and I think that's what makes Champions of Change so important and unique.

Member briefings

Workplace responses to domestic and family violence

The prevalence of gender-based violence, including intimate partner homicide, has shaken our nation profoundly this year. Incidents of such violence are not isolated and are a grim reflection of a pervasive crisis in our communities that survivor-advocates, frontline workers and women's rights organisations have been sounding the alarm on for decades.

Our Coalition has been proactive in implementing frameworks and resources that tackle domestic and family violence for nearly a decade. These resources are designed to equip workplaces to prevent violence, ensure perpetrators are held to account, support victim-survivors, and amplify impact into the communities in which we work. They have been developed in collaboration with leading academics, women's rights advocates and victim-survivors—including survivor-advocate Kristy McKellar OAM, No to Violence, Our Watch, Full Stop Australia, WESNET, UNSW Gendered Violence Research Network, and Challenge DV—and are available for use by any organisation committed to making a change.

On 2 July, we held a Member Briefing to reaffirm our commitment to the Playing Our Part framework, first released in 2015 and updated in 2021. This framework equips our Members with actionable steps to make a difference in the workplace—whether their organisations are just starting out or are more advanced in their strategies. Members learned from experts and other Members about the important role workplaces can play, gained practical insights on implementing the framework, and reflected on what more we can do to have an impact.

Facilitated by Elizabeth Broderick AO, speakers included:

- ◆ Micaela Cronin, Domestic, Family and Sexual Violence Commissioner
- ◆ Moo Baulch OAM, Chair, Our Watch
- ◆ Jacque Lachmund, Co-Director, Workplace Respect
- ◆ Catherine McNair, Head of Diversity, Inclusion and Wellbeing, QBE Insurance
- ◆ Dale Connor, COO and CEO Construction, Lendlease.

Gender equality landscape

Following the Champions of Change Coalition delegation attendance at the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women's CSW68, we convened a Member Briefing on 30 April to share insights on global progress towards, and challenges to, women's human rights.

While important gains have been made for women's rights in recent decades, overall progress towards an equal and just society where women are free from discrimination has been painfully slow and uneven across the globe. Women's rights groups play a pivotal role in driving legal and policy changes to combat gender inequality, while the efforts of women human rights defenders are essential to achieving lasting progress.

Against this background, our Member Briefing featured a discussion with global women's rights defenders, who shared personal reflections on the current challenges for women's human rights. Members of Champions of Change Coalition's delegation to CSW68 shared insights from their immersion in the global discussions.

Facilitated by Elizabeth Broderick AO, speakers included:

- ◆ Helen Dalley-Fisher, Convenor, Equality Rights Alliance
- ◆ Stephanie Copus Campbell AM, Australian Ambassador for Gender Equality
- ◆ Daniel Westerman, CEO, Australian Energy Market Operator
- ◆ Melanie Evans, CEO, ING
- ◆ Michael Morgan, Deputy Commissioner, Fire Rescue Victoria.

Leadership and transparency on closing the gender pay gap

In November, the Coalition held a Member Briefing to update Members on gender pay gap reporting, informed by the latest data from the Workplace Gender Equality Agency (WGEA).

WGEA CEO the Hon. Mary Wooldridge shared insights on the current landscape of the gender pay gap in Australia following the February 2024 release of median gender pay gap data, which has been instrumental in driving national awareness and action. She emphasised the importance of using this data to inform more targeted strategies for achieving inclusive gender equality across Australian workplaces.

The briefing also provided a recap on the Coalition's report, Closing Gender Pay Gaps: Our Action and Commitment, which was developed in collaboration with WGEA. It provides a framework for understanding the drivers of gender pay gaps and outlines high-impact actions that can be implemented at organisational, sectoral and national levels to address these disparities.

The session underscored the significance of collective and coordinated action, equipping Members with the knowledge and tools necessary to continue their efforts in closing gender pay gaps.

Responding to employees who use domestic and family violence

In early December, the Coalition, in collaboration with Workplace Respect, delivered an online workshop providing Member organisations with guidance on organisational responses to employees who use domestic and family violence.

Drawing on the Coalition's resource on this topic (Employees who use domestic and family violence: A workplace response), the workshop addressed the need for organisations to effectively identify, understand and manage these complex situations, ensuring the safety and wellbeing of people, particularly victim-survivors, while fostering a culture of accountability and support. This approach is essential because it sets expectations around the behaviour of employees and works to prevent further harm while ensuring that the workplace is not complicit in allowing abusive behaviours to go unchecked.

The workshop was aligned with the broader goals of the Coalition's engagement in the 16 Days of Activism campaign, emphasising the role of workplaces in addressing domestic and family violence. It covered topics such as recognising behaviours that may indicate someone is using domestic and family violence, understanding how workplaces can effectively respond when they become aware an employee is using domestic and family violence, and unpacking the role of the workplace in recognising and responding to the situation, and referring people to expert organisations for support. The discussion also revisited key elements of the Coalition's existing resources, including the Playing Our Part framework.

The workshop was facilitated by Jacque Lachmund, Kat Baulch and Matt Pronger, who are Co-Directors of Workplace Respect and long-time partners of the Coalition, including collaborating on the original Playing Our Part materials.

FOCUSED on Everyday Respect: in conversation with Dr. Anna Cody, Sex Discrimination Commissioner

In October, the Coalition hosted a Member Briefing to launch our resource FOCUSED on Everyday Respect. Developed with Members over the past 18 months, the release coincided with the first anniversary of the implementation of the positive duty obligations introduced into the Sex Discrimination Act 1984 (Cth), underscoring the importance of these obligations in fostering respectful and safe workplace environments.

The Coalition's resource provides practical guidance on embedding everyday respect into workplace culture by clearly defining what everyday disrespect and respect look like. It offers specific, actionable steps to foster respectful environments for all.

The Member Briefing, led by Sex Discrimination Commissioner Dr. Anna Cody in conversation with Elizabeth Broderick AO, provided Members with insights into positive duty obligations. Dr. Anna delivered a compelling overview of the current landscape of workplace respect, emphasising the ongoing challenges and opportunities for leadership.

Her reflections highlighted how organisations have navigated these obligations over the past year, sharing examples of leadership, areas where gaps persist and where further efforts are needed.

Members, shared practical examples of actions to foster everyday respect in their workplaces, providing insights into effective and replicable strategies.

By addressing both successes and challenges, and giving practical examples, the session provided Members with actionable strategies to further equip organisations with the tools to create respectful, safe and inclusive workplaces.

Gender Compass

We held briefings for our Members on Plan International's Gender Compass research, led by social researcher Dr Rebecca Huntley. The Gender Compass offers new and essential insights into the Australian public's attitudes and behaviours around gender equality and respect. We will use the insights from the research to help us more effectively engage our teams and communities in efforts to create more gender equal, safe and respectful workplaces.

Roundtable on international gender equality priorities

The Coalition worked with Australia's Gender Equality Ambassador, Stephanie Copus Campbell AM, and Workplace Gender Equality Agency CEO the Hon. Mary Wooldridge to convene a virtual roundtable with Members, focused on Australia's international gender equality priorities and the pivotal role that Australian businesses play in advancing these goals globally.

Participants engaged in a dialogue about the gender equality efforts currently being led by Australian businesses domestically and in international markets, particularly in Southeast Asia and the Pacific. They also discussed opportunities for public-private sector collaboration to accelerate change and overcome challenges.

The meeting emphasised the importance of sustained collaboration and strategic initiatives to promote gender equality in Australia and on the international stage.

Refresh of our flagship resources

This year, we continued to refresh our flagship resources, including:

- ◆ In the eye of the beholder: Avoiding the Merit Trap
- ◆ 40:40:20 For gender balance: Interrupting bias in your talent processes
- ◆ Building a gender-balanced and inclusive presence: Test the messages you project.

These resources have been updated to reflect our strategy, our work on power and everyday respect, and current thinking on men’s accountability for gender equality as set out by the United Nations Working Group on Discrimination Against Women and Girls, and to incorporate an intersectional lens across all our work.

In February 2024, we released a new report, Closing gender pay gaps: Our actions and commitment, coinciding with WGEA's inaugural publication of gender pay gap data for Australian private sector organisations with more than 100 employees.

Developed through extensive stakeholder and Member engagement, the report includes:

- ◆ the Coalition's commitment to collective efforts to closing gender pay gaps—including the median gender pay gap data—of eligible Members
- ◆ a framework for understanding the drivers of gender pay gaps and high-impact actions that can be taken at the organisation, sector and national levels to close them

What our Member data and experience as a Coalition over a decade show is that organisations cannot close gender pay gaps by working in isolation. This is a generational challenge. Lasting change will only be achieved through collective efforts to redesign decades of education, employment and workplace strategies, which in the past have been based on gender roles and norms that undermine efforts to achieve gender equality. Strategies to address the unequal division of caring and household management will also be essential.

Gender Equality Dashboard

Since 2010, Champions of Change has focused on gender reporting as a core pillar of our strategy to achieve inclusive gender equality—what's measured gets managed.

Over the past decade, alongside WGEA and ASX listing requirements, a range of legislative changes has expanded reporting obligations, leading to the development of a diverse market of products and services for gender equality reporting that vary in quality, insight, consistency and uptake. Additionally, important new metrics, such as gender pay gap data, have emerged from a decade of action and innovation in gender equality efforts.

This year, a cross-Coalition project led by Member McKinsey & Company has worked to develop a consistent and contemporary gender equality reporting dashboard to help organisations focus on the most critical actions to take and measures to track as part of workplace gender equality strategies.

A new Gender Equality Dashboard prototype was developed based on global research into current and promising practice, engagement with CEOs and key teams across the Coalition, and practical testing in over 50 Member organisations of varying sizes across a range of sectors.

The dashboard aims to provide context to an organisation's gender representation and gender pay gap data, their underpinning drivers, and the key focus areas to create improvements.

There is potential to influence global standards on more comprehensive, consistent and insightful reporting and assessment of organisation, sector and national efforts to advance systemic and sustainable change on gender equality.

Unstoppable: Progress towards gender equality and pay equality in sport

In November, we released the report Unstoppable: Progress towards gender equality and pay equality in Australian sport, a landmark publication by the Champions of Change Coalition Sport Group. It describes the significant transformation achieved in sport over the past decade, and future priorities towards the Group's vision of truly gender-equal sport within a generation.

Unstoppable marked 10 years since the initial recommendation to establish the Champions of Change Sport Group, and five years since the launch of the Coalition's comprehensive monitoring and assessment framework, called Pathway to Gender Equality and Pay Equality in Sport (the Pathway framework).

The report of the same name highlights that through determined efforts across the sports ecosystem there has been more progress towards gender equality in sport in the past 10 years than in the past 100 years. It demonstrates the substantial impact that can be achieved when sectors work collectively and collaboratively, and stay the course in their commitment to achieving gender equality.

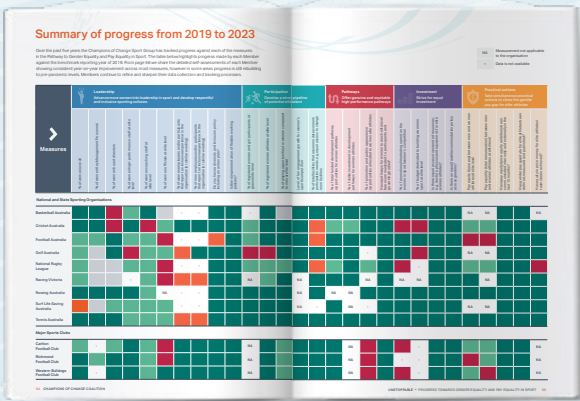

Since the Pathway framework’s launch during the Women’s T20 World Cup in March 2020, Sport Group Members have publicly reported progress on its key measures annually, with most Members maintaining or improving their performance each year.

Unstoppable includes Members’ individual and collective assessment of their progress during the past five years against more than 20 measures set out in the framework.

Unstoppable was developed through extensive stakeholder consultations, including interviews with CEOs and senior leaders; focus groups with Implementation Leaders from the Champions of Change Sport Group; interviews with government and emerging sports leaders; feedback and consultation with women leaders in the sector; and a comprehensive review of related research from 2014 to 2024.

We extend our sincere gratitude to PwC for its collaboration in shaping the analysis and findings presented in Unstoppable, and for its partnership in helping to strengthen our collective pursuit of a more equitable sporting landscape for Australia.

Sponsorship Track: A practical guide to gender inclusive progression

In July we released Sponsorship Track: A practical guide to gender inclusive progression, providing practical guidance on how to establish formal, structured and inclusive sponsorship initiatives. It was developed based on significant knowledge gained and lessons learnt through more than a decade of implementing sponsorship initiatives across the Coalition.

The guide outlines the case for sponsorship, the difference between mentoring and sponsorship, key steps in establishing and assessing sponsorship programs, and tips for both sponsors and those sponsored. It also includes a range of case studies and insights arising from sponsorship initiatives conducted across our Coalition during the past 10 years in our Sport, Property, STEM and Health, Architecture, Fire and Emergency, and Consult Australia Groups.

Sponsorship Track was launched in conjunction with the Property Council of Australia at a 500 Women in Property event in Melbourne on 30 July, with more than 250 leaders from the sector in attendance.

The power of effective sponsorship for women cannot be overstated. An effective sponsor is senior and powerful, and uses their political capital to invest in, advocate for, and create opportunities for a more junior person.

For women, in particular, sponsors can help to play a critical role in advancing their careers because they often recognise qualities that women may not see in themselves. Reflecting on the significant impact sponsors have had on my career, I think about the times I've leaned on sponsors for extra support. This is particularly true for the leadership opportunities presented to me over the years, where my sponsors encouraged me to take on new roles.

of Members expect all leaders in their organisation to routinely sponsor diverse women,  to 74% in 2023

Imagine for a moment the economic, community and business impact if leaders used the Sponsorship Track to help identify and sponsor emerging talent—not just of women but of people of completely different backgrounds and life experiences to their own. In this way, sponsorship—which, when you boil it down, is about being curious, active, and caring about the future of people in your midst—is mutually enriching for the person who receives it and the person who gives.

Growing the talent pipeline

The Energy Group, in collaboration with relevant Members across the Coalition, embarked on a project this year to address the challenges of building a gender-balanced talent pipeline for the energy transition and innovative strategies to accelerate change. Facilitated by our Member, EY, the project is designed to identify and address barriers to entry in the sector and innovative advancement strategies through education, vocational, lateral and international pathways.

This project is underpinned by the strategic need for gender diversity to drive innovation and enhance the sector’s capacity, while ensuring women are equally engaged in and benefiting from the energy transition. It involved qualitative interviews with CEOs, human resources workers, women leaders and industry representatives, along with a review of existing research and successful strategies from across the world.

With a focus on specific roles and capabilities, the outcomes of this project will be applicable across a range of industries and sectors, particularly as we work to ensure gender equality is built into talent and strategic workplace planning of the future. This includes practical actions and recommendations for organisations, the energy industry and government, aligned with the Coalition’s 7 Switches framework for inclusive gender equality by design.

Tackling tough spots

As more and more organisations reach gender balance, a detailed exploration of representation data, along with insights from analysis of gender pay gaps, reveals aggregate data is masking key parts of the organisation where progress towards gender balance has stalled. These roles, departments or functions are recognised as 'tough spots' requiring leadership, targeted organisational intervention and collaborative efforts to shift.

The National 2015, National 2016, Fire and Emergency, and Property Groups have been interrogating 'tough spots' since 2020 by tracking representation data and gender pay gaps; listening and learning through focus groups and surveys; and piloting specific interventions.

This work shows that persistent tough spots undermine overall progress on gender equality and challenge our Members to consider whether they have truly removed the barriers to women's full participation and progress, or only in certain roles and functions that can be perceived as peripheral to the core business of the organisation. Insights gained from a review of Member data highlight that this is key to closing organisation-wide gender pay gaps and needs to be a whole-of-Coalition priority.

Through this work, we have identified consistent manifestations of tough spots identifiable across most organisations, the common drivers of these workforce dynamics, and strategies to achieve change within organisations and across sectors and industries through collective action. Our intent is to release this work as a public resource so others may learn from our early work and adapt and adopt it for their own organisations.

Energy Sector Tough Spots

The Energy Sector Tough Spots project, led by KPMG, aims to address persistent gender disparities in Australia's energy sector. Despite overall progress in workplace gender equality, the sector still faces significant challenges, especially in senior leadership and technical roles, where women are vastly under-represented. Women continue to be a minority of the sector's total workforce and leadership positions.

This project seeks to understand the root causes of these disparities and develop targeted strategies to transform these tough spots into examples of gender equality. By conducting a detailed analysis of gender pay gaps and consulting with key stakeholders through workshops and interviews, the project aims to provide actionable insights for Members to pursue individually and collectively.

The goal is to enhance the sector's adaptability, innovation and attractiveness to top talent by promoting gender diversity in leadership, and the roles and functions critical to the sector's future. The project will assess the current state of gender disparities, help formulate effective strategies to close the gender pay gap, and provide a platform for collective action and advocacy for change.

Cultures of care, respect, safety and belonging – leveraging the talent advantage

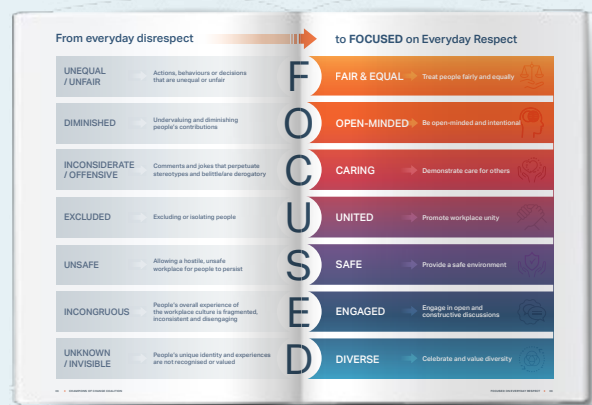

Ensuring everyday respect in workplaces

In October, we released FOCUSED on Everyday Respect, a new comprehensive resource to support individual and collective leadership action on building cultures of respect, inclusion, belonging and cohesion in our workplaces.

Developed through a two-year cross-Coalition project and extensive stakeholder engagement, it includes guidance and practical tools focused on:

- ◆ the case for leadership focus on everyday respect
- ◆ the legal and regulatory context leaders must be aware of
- ◆ examples of how everyday disrespect manifests in workplaces
- ◆ a modern, clear and consistent blueprint for everyday respect in workplaces—what it should look like in practice
- ◆ clear steps to embed respectful practices in leadership and across business systems
- ◆ practical tools to help cultivate cultures of everyday respect
- ◆ case studies on promising practice from Champions of Change Coalition Members, including CBA, Rio Tinto, Viva Energy, Komatsu, CSIRO, Telstra and QBE.

In preparing the resource, Members held ‘Listen and Learn’ conversations with people across their organisations to help understand what everyday disrespect and everyday respect look like. The conversations also helped to develop practical actions leaders can take to create more safe, respectful and inclusive workplaces.

The resource will support Members to lead in creating greater respect and cohesion in workplaces, with the aim of better experiences for everyone across the employee life cycle. The changes leaders make in the culture of their workplaces can also have a direct impact in creating safer communities and homes.

We sincerely thank the organisations and individuals that provided expert advice on the materials developed. They include the Australian Human Rights Commission, Our Watch, Equality Australia, the Disability Leadership Institute, and Maria Dimopoulos AM.

Leading on care and caring across the employee life cycle

Since inception, the Coalition has prioritised practical and disruptive action to address the barriers that prevent employees with caring responsibilities from thriving in our workplaces, and to encourage the equal sharing of unpaid care between people regardless of gender. Nonetheless, we continue to see the demands of work and care limiting women's workforce participation, progress and economic equality.

This 'care conundrum' underpins many of our challenges in talent attraction, the talent pipeline, leadership balance, gender pay gaps and employee wellbeing. Members have collaborated with experts to understand more deeply the breadth and longevity of caring that employees undertake and often hide from their employers.

We have developed a maturity framework of leading practice approaches to supporting employees with diverse caring responsibilities, to enable them to thrive in the workplace. We are also working to identify the leadership and culture shifts required to enable care to be prioritised.

This year, the Property Group explored the persistent barriers faced by working carers in their organisations, as well as leading practice approaches to supporting carers in the workplace. The Group held a joint Member and Implementation Leader meeting and heard from speakers, including a working carer who shared her lived experience and the Chief Human Resources Officer of Deloitte who shared information about Deloitte's innovative approach to supporting working carers. The Group gathered insights that will inform a consultation paper to be released in early 2025 and become the basis of the Coalition's further work on this topic.

of Member organisations implement initiatives (other than carer's leave) to support employees with caring responsibilities beyond parenting, ↑ from 71% in 2023

80%

of Member organisations have a strategy with policy settings in place to improve men's uptake of parental leave, ↑ from 69% in 2023

73%

of Member organisations pay superannuation to employees during periods of both paid and unpaid parental leave, ↑ from 67% in 2023

Proactively preventing sexual harassment

Eliminating sexual harassment from our workplaces is a shared priority across Champions of Change Coalition. Since the release of Disrupting the System: Preventing and responding to sexual harassment in the workplace in 2020, we have made progress on key priorities such as leadership, measurement and reporting, education and transparency.

Our long-term focus on gender equality and sexual harassment prevention ensured that Member organisations were well prepared to respond to and embrace the major statutory reforms introduced 12 months ago that redefined the legal landscape for sexual harassment prevention.

Our Members continue to implement the recommendations in Disrupting the System, and they share and learn from one another on the impact of these actions in preventing and responding to workplace sexual harassment.

Building confidence and trust in workplace responses to sexual harassment

Until we eradicate sexual harassment and other harmful behaviours from our organisations, our goal is for all organisations to have trauma-informed, person-centred, safe and fair response systems that prioritise people’s wellbeing, healing and recovery.

As part of our broader sexual harassment prevention efforts, there is a pressing need to rethink and redesign workplace responses to sexual harassment, which to date have largely addressed sexual harassment as an issue of legal risk rather than human harm. Ongoing, holistic support for the people impacted, choices for how they report issues, input into resolution options, and long-term care and recovery must be key features of future sexual harassment response systems.

To support Members to review and improve their current approaches, in November 2023 we released a new resource, Building confidence and trust in workplace responses to sexual harassment.

It shares practical steps to help organisations implement more person-centred, trauma-informed, safe and fair approaches for responding to and resolving workplace sexual harassment. Throughout 2024, Members implemented this framework and reflected on the impact of actions taken, including new approaches to transparency and disclosure.

Activating Everyday Champions of Change

The Coalition brings together CEOs to lead on inclusive gender equality within workplaces and society. Our Members recognise the value in activating a broader network of Everyday Champions of Change to accelerate progress.

We know there is energy to drive change across our organisations, but not everyone has been afforded the opportunity to learn, reflect and debate. Many employees are advocates for gender equality and, if invited to help, will step up.

In this context, the Coalition has engaged and activated a broader network of champions of inclusive gender equality, diversity and inclusion through a series of Everyday Champions of Change workshops that draw on the strategies and resources developed by our Members over the past decade. To date, some 500 leaders across approximately 60 Member organisations have participated in one of 14 Everyday Champions of Change workshops. This year we held two workshops involving around 90 leaders from Champions of Change Property Group organisations, with a focus on leaders from leasing and capital transactions—two key ‘tough spots’ in the property industry.

Shaping workforces of the future—men and masculinities

To meet employee and stakeholder expectations that the workplace is safe, respectful and inclusive requires leaders at all levels across all sectors to understand and take action to demonstrate the benefits of gender equality. It is important to reflect on how gender norms—including expressions of masculinities—are learnt, shaped and reinforced by everything around us, including our workplaces, particularly the pressure to conform to and uphold these norms. This involves considering the different ways men, women and gender-diverse people may experience power and privilege, as well as discrimination.

Over the past 12 months, we have invited leaders to consider how rigid norms and stereotypes show up in workplaces, especially rigid expressions of masculinity, which can hold back progress on gender equality and impact efforts to create more safe, respectful and inclusive working environments.

The Coalition this year has been engaging with various national and international organisations to understand the thoughtful work, research and programs that are having a positive impact regarding masculinity and allyship, or at least being implemented and demonstrating promise, as this area is a work in progress. The key findings from the in-depth analysis will be shared more broadly with the Coalition. This will include practical actions leaders can take to build support strategies for more expansive expressions of masculinity, ways to support men in all their diversity, mitigate backlash, and ultimately prevent everyday sexism and gender-based violence.

We are collaborating with Equipundo: Center for Masculinities and Social Justice, a leading organisation working to engage men and boys as allies in gender equality, promote healthy manhood, and prevent violence. As part of this work, Equipundo has included a case study on the Champions of Change model in a report that will be released in late 2024.

Equality and inclusion are embedded in what we deliver, creating an innovation advantage and positive social impact

Roundtable on products and services safety

In September, we convened a roundtable with Member organisations across insurance, energy, banking and telecommunications to develop innovative responses to the weaponisation of essential products and services in domestic and family violence.

People who use domestic and family violence use products and services to exert control over victims and to harass and intimidate them, impacting victim-survivors' ability to maintain financial stability, safety, health and wellbeing.

While our Members across Champions of Change Coalition have been taking action to prevent and mitigate the risks of such forms of violence over several years, the Roundtable sought more urgent action, given the persistent and catastrophic levels of domestic and family violence in the Australian community.

The objectives of the forum were to:

- ◆ affirm organisational and leadership commitment to addressing the issue
- ◆ prevent the weaponisation of current product and service offerings
- ◆ ensure that systems and processes prioritise the confidentiality and safety of victim-survivors
- ◆ hold customers accountable for the misuse of products and services
- ◆ ensure products and service development and enhancements (including relevant systems and processes) adhere to safety by design principles and support the empowerment and independence of women.

The roundtable was led by Champions of Change Convenor Kristen Hilton and included expert Catherine Fitzpatrick (Flexquity), Prof. Jan Breckenridge (UNSW Gendered-Violence Research Network) and CEOs and senior executives from 21 Member and partner organisations.

The discussion included:

- ◆ the ways in which products and services are used by people who use domestic and family violence to abuse and control their (ex)partner or member of their family
- ◆ the unique ways in which people who experience intersectional discrimination experience the misuse of products and services and the implications of this for our prevention and response efforts
- ◆ actions Members are taking to support victim-survivors, keep their details confidential and hold people who misuse products and services accountable
- ◆ actions Members are taking to build gender equal and inclusive design into the development of all future products and services
- ◆ opportunities for Coalition-wide collective action to amplify our impact.

The discussion confirmed the strong work underway across Member organisations to address the misuse of their products and services and the alarming rates at which these efforts are needed. It also affirmed the commitment of Members to continue to learn and improve their practice, including ensuring gender equal and inclusive design is built into the design of future products and services.

The Coalition will continue discussions on this important topic, encouraging each other to take more and bolder action; learning from one another; and bringing in Members from other industries to take action. During the 16 Days of Activism to End Gender-based Violence the Coalition will release a public statement affirming the Coalition's collective commitment to take action, affirming our zero-tolerance stance on the misuse of products and services by people who use domestic and family violence and setting out the step we are taking at the organisation, industry, national and international level to address this scourge.

Our Member organisations, Commonwealth Bank, Hollard, IAG, QBE and Suncorp, have also publicly supported the Respect and Protect program which includes the inclusion of financial abuse in their terms and conditions, or have pledged to introduce this measure soon.

Property Champions lead 16 Days of Activism campaign

Each year, the Coalition participates in the 16 Days of Activism Against Gender-Based Violence (from International Day for the Elimination of Violence Against Women on 25 November to International Human Rights Day on 10 December). We share our Members' efforts to prevent and respond to gender-based violence, and amplify the work of our many partners working tirelessly every day to prevent and respond to violence against women.

For the third year, the Property Champions of Change led an industry-wide campaign during 16 Days of Activism to raise awareness of domestic and family violence. This included a Tools Down event, as well as lighting up assets in orange to raise awareness among clients, customers, tenants and the communities in which they own, operate and manage buildings across the country.

Advancing women with intersecting marginalised identities at every level

We recognise that efforts to advance gender equality have not necessarily lifted all women equally, and that embedding an intersectional approach will help deliver inclusive gender equality and ensure our Members can reap the full organisational benefits of gender equality and access to diverse and untapped talent.

Throughout the year, we continued to work with Members to build an understanding of intersectionality, identify key actions for leaders, and encourage them to view the different gender equality issues and initiatives in the Coalition workplan through an intersectional lens.

We also partnered with Our Watch to develop a starter kit for organisations to embed an intersectional approach into their gender equality efforts.

Decision-making and design for a gender-equal and inclusive future

In March, we released a draft resource, 7 Switches: A Guide for Inclusive Gender Equality by Design, for stakeholder review and feedback. This pioneering initiative, led by Members Jacobs and CSIRO, aims to help embed inclusive gender equality at the heart of all decision-making and design processes, across everything we do and deliver. Our vision is for a world where inclusive gender equality fuels creativity, innovation and economic prosperity. By using the 7 Switches to embed gender equality from the start, we want to help set a new standard for how we operate, unlocking potential growth and innovation that benefits us all.

7 Switches provides decision-makers with simple, actionable strategies to:

1. Actively include and engage diverse women in end-to-end decision-making
2. Equally value the contributions, perspectives and achievements of people of all genders
3. Enable the autonomy, independence, freedom and privacy of women and girls
4. Never prioritise or trade off the health and safety of people of any gender over those of others
5. Factor the attributes and needs of women into design at every life stage
6. Eliminate harmful gender stereotypes, norms and expectations that impede equality
7. Make equal or corrective investments to eradicate gender inequity.

We collaborated with Football Australia and Commonwealth Bank to release a 7 Switches case study focused on Football Australia’s Matildas team and the Legacy ‘23 campaign as part of the hugely successful 2023 FIFA Women’s World Cup. The case study showcases the transformative outcomes that are possible for all stakeholders when there is a shared vision and systemic action to build gender equality into every decision and design process. The case study was shared by Football Australia at a forum entitled Redesigning the World With Female Athletes in Focus, hosted by the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) Equity 2030 Alliance at Harvard Kennedy School.

In September, we collaborated with the UN Global Compact to deliver a forum focused on inclusive gender equality by design, showcasing the 7 Switches framework as part of the UN Global Compact Leaders Summit in New York.

Champions of Change Members have been piloting 7 Switches over the course of the year, as the beginnings of what we hope will be a larger movement. Through collaborations with organisations such as the UNFPA and the UN Global Compact, we hope to amplify its reach and potential impact globally.

For years, we’ve invested heavily in fixing systems that neglected over half of the population, often causing harm. That’s inefficient and unfair by any measure. 7 Switches empowers leaders to take a systems approach to integrating inclusive gender equality into the operational fabric of their organisations. Embracing it could also drive innovation, market expansion, and other commercial advantages as organisations respond to unmet needs.

Personal Protective Equipment

Various organisations in the Coalition—particularly our Fire and Emergency Group—have been working to address issues around the availability of gender-inclusive personal protective equipment (PPE) and personal protective clothing (PPC).

Access to gender-equal and inclusive PPE and PPC is critical to attract and retain women in frontline roles in the sector, as well as for the health and safety of women and diverse people of all genders.

The Fire and Emergency Group's focus has been on understanding gaps in access to PPE and PPC, and identifying opportunities to work individually and collectively to address any barriers to the procurement of and access to gender-inclusive PPE and PPC. This work has included applying the 7 Switches framework. The Group is also linking with counterparts in the US and other countries, and those in other industries to build knowledge and a powerful coalition for change.

Aligning with the annual Australian and New Zealand National Council for fire and emergency services (AFAC) conference in September, Champions of Change Coalition led a roundtable discussion with Fire and Emergency Services stakeholders, including representatives from the US Federal Emergency Management Agency, women working in frontline roles, and Women and Firefighting Australasia. The discussion focused on understanding the barriers to ensuring access to gender-inclusive PPE and PPC, and identifying what collective action can be taken to drive change.

The final report will include a detailed analysis of current PPE and PPC provision, identifying gaps, challenges and recommendations for improvement drawn from research and consultations.

Shaping new and transitioning sectors to proactively 'build in' gender equality

As the Coalition pursues its vision and strategy, engaging with new Members and industries is critical to achieving sustainable change. This isn't just about traditionally male-dominated sectors—gender equality is relevant to every part of the economy. Each industry offers its own challenges and opportunities, and by welcoming a diverse mix of Members, we can accelerate change.

Including emerging industries, especially those leading technological and societal transformation, allows us to set new standards for equity and inclusion from the outset. This means creating workplaces that are inclusive by design, not just retrofitting them for diversity. By taking this comprehensive approach, we make gender equality a core principle across all industries, ensuring sustainable progress and paving the way for future generations.

New Group: Rail

In collaboration with the Australasian Railway Association (ARA), the Coalition brought together key representatives from the rail industry to commit to a significant and enduring increase in the representation of women at all levels within the sector.

In July 2024, the Rail Group was established, with 10 CEOs from diverse rail infrastructure, operations and services businesses across Australia. Under the convenorship of Kathy Mac Dermott, the Group is dedicated to ensuring that the rail industry attracts talent from the entire population, creates inclusive and appealing work environments, and places women's expertise, innovation and insights at the forefront of delivering the $154 billion pipeline of rail projects.

The Group's priorities include cultivating female leaders at every level; building workplace cultures where everyone feels safe, respected, valued and equal; and implementing strategic, coordinated efforts to inspire and support more women and girls in pursuing careers within the rail industry.

Measuring Action to Accelerate Change

Taking practical action to accelerate the pace of change is core to the Champions of Change approach.

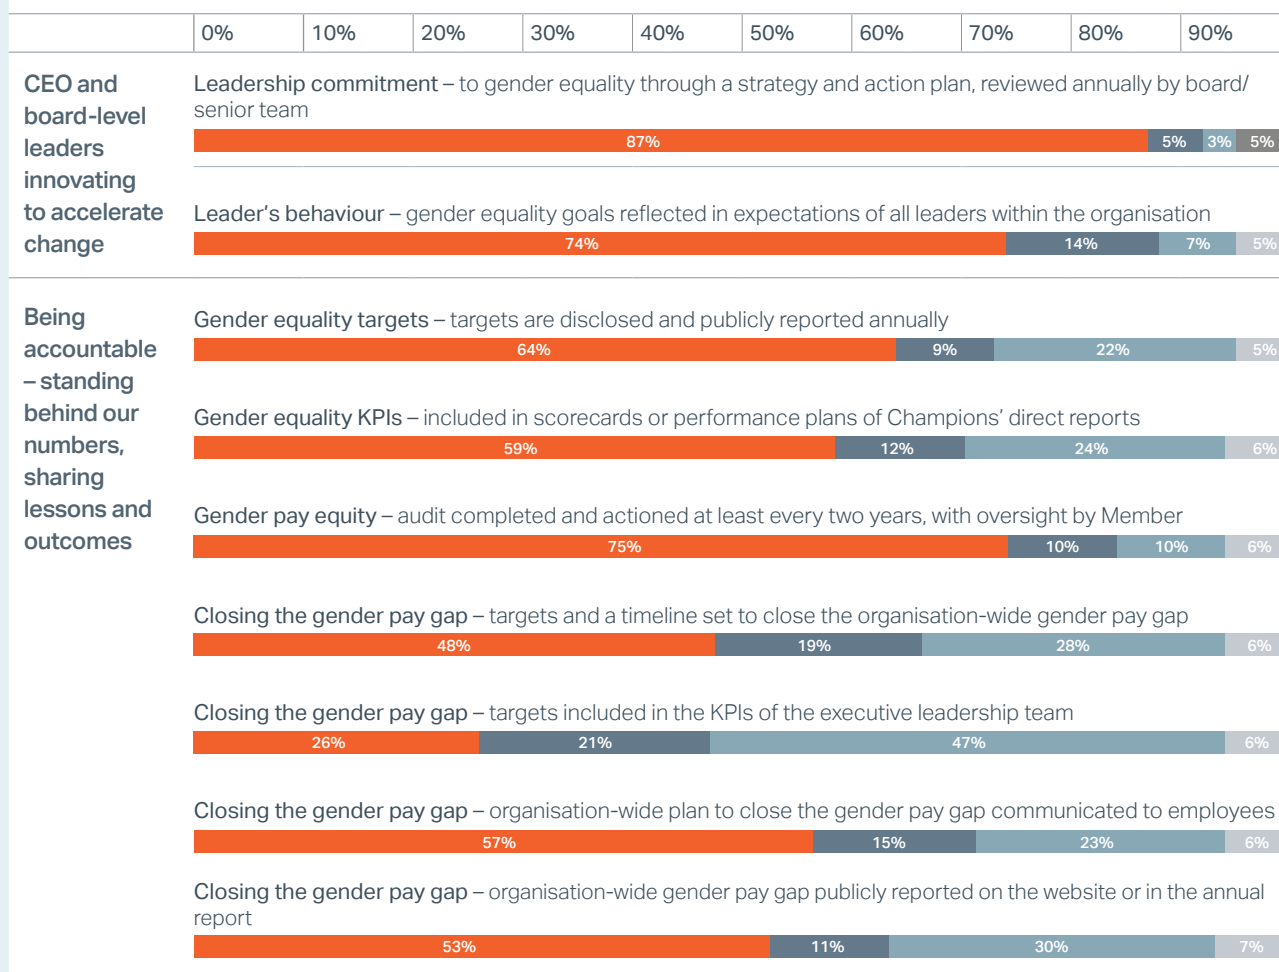

We focus on innovation, experimentation and the fundamentals of leading and progressive practice on gender equality.

Each Group has its own pathway of listening, learning and leading that considers their unique contexts, priorities, timeframes and opportunities to improve.

Table 1 describes the collective engagement of our Member organisations on key actions identified for accelerating more women and diverse leadership, achieving gender equality, and creating the conditions and cultures that enable all employees to thrive. The data in this table represents action by the Coalition as a whole, as it stands at the time of reporting by individual organisations.

Measuring Impact

We measure gender balance in leadership annually against our objectives to understand progress and gaps so that we can continuously improve.

Table 2 contains the most recent overall data for the Members of Champions of Change Coalition. The data shows the status and year-on-year change in women’s representation in leadership for the Coalition at a point in time and is based on comparing the same set of organisations reporting in 2022–23 and 2023–24. Women’s representation across the Coalition has increased in 2023–24.

This includes increases in women’s representation across the leadership categories of General Managers, Senior Managers, Other Managers and Board.

Table 3 tracks the gender balance (40:40:20) in executive leadership teams (ELTs) in the ASX 200. Since 2017, Chief Executive Women (CEW) has been monitoring the gender composition of Australia’s largest listed companies across several metrics. This table shows the improvement of the Champions of Change Members of the ASX 200 against the ASX 200 overall over the past seven years.

Architecture Group

As designers for the built environment, the Architecture Group recognises that diversity in leadership and the profession is crucial for both society and architectural practices. Established in 2015 to address the under-representation of women in senior roles, its mission is to accelerate women's advancement into leadership and to foster gender equality across architecture in Australia. Each year, the Group reflects on its progress in providing industry-specific learnings across the profession and adapting its practices to the changing and often challenging environment. Members lead over 1,400 employees and many more internationally.

Overview of impact in 2024

- ◆ The Group continued sharing toolkits, discussion guides, and insights with the profession via the Stepping Up platform, in partnership with the Association of Consulting Architects and Parlour, reaching several hundred industry participants through monthly live events.
- ◆ Members contributed to Coalition flagship projects including Sponsorship Track: A practical guide to gender inclusive progression, which highlighted the Group's podcast series, The Last Mile, as a case study on the transformative impact of sponsorship relationships.
- ◆ The Group's report, Inclusion by Design: Guide and Best Practices for the Built Environment, leverages the Coalition's 7 Switches framework to outline practical strategies to integrate inclusive principles across all aspects of the built environment, from infrastructure and urban design to healthcare and education. This work aims to transform spaces and lives through enhanced accessibility, health and safety, wellbeing, belonging, and participation. The Group is committed to not just meeting existing design standards for the built environment but elevating them and demonstrating thought leadership across sectors.

Energy Group

Established in June 2023, the Energy Group includes 22 Members, who lead more than 39,000 employees across Australia. Its purpose is to ensure women's expertise, innovation and insights are harnessed as part of Australia's trillion-dollar energy transition. The Group is aiming for equal representation, engagement, and benefit for women in this significant social, environmental, and economic transformation. Key priorities include developing women leaders at every level, fostering respectful and inclusive workplace cultures, and taking a more intentional and coordinated approach to enabling more women and girls to pursue careers in the sector.

Overview of impact in 2024

- ◆ Commenced implementation of the inaugural workplan, focusing on partnering with more women leaders in the sector, including Australia's Equity in Energy Transition Ambassadors.
- ◆ Hosted Australian Energy Market Commissioner Anna Collyer to discuss visible, inclusive, and expansive views of current and potential leaders in the energy sector.
- ◆ AEMO CEO Daniel Westerman shared insights and lessons learned from attending UN Commission on the Status of Women during a Member Briefing on the Gender Equality Landscape in April.
- ◆ AGL MD and CEO Damien Nicks, along with Co-Convenor James Fazzino and Coalition Founder Elizabeth Broderick AO, led a national conversation on closing the gender pay gap, coinciding with WGEA's inaugural release of median gender pay gaps in February.
- ◆ Collaborated with Coalition Members on a comprehensive project to identify innovative strategies for integrating gender balance into the talent pipeline for the energy transition. Led by EY (from the National 2016 Group), the project focuses on identifying and overcoming entry barriers, advancing innovative strategies, and ensuring women can equally access, contribute to and benefit from the transition. The project included interviews with key industry leaders and stakeholders, and a review of global best practices, with outcomes applicable across industries to embed gender equality in future workforce and talent planning.
- ◆ Partnered with KPMG (from the Founding Group) to identify strategies to address persistent gender disparities in Australia's energy sector. A platform for collective action and advocacy for change, this project sought to understand and address root causes of gender pay gaps, transform 'tough spots' into examples of gender equality, and provide actionable insights for Members through detailed analysis, workshops, and interviews.
- ◆ Participated in our products and services roundtable with representatives from Alinta Energy, Energy Australia, Energy Queensland, Origin Energy, Momentum Energy, and Solstice Energy, alongside other industry leaders, to develop strategies to prevent the weaponisation of essential products and services in domestic and family violence cases.

Insurance Group

The Insurance Group, established in August 2019, comprises nine Members leading over 39,000 employees across Australia and New Zealand, and many more internationally. The Group focuses on bold and inclusive leadership, respectful and inclusive workplaces, closing the gender pay gap, and strategies to prevent the weaponisation of products and services in cases of domestic and family violence.

Overview of impact in 2024

- ◆ The Group co-led the development of the Coalition's Closing Gender Pay Gaps report and shared resources across the sector through a collaboration with the Insurance Council of Australia.
- ◆ QBE Australia Pacific provided a case study for the Coalition-wide resource FOCUSED on Everyday Respect, launched in October.
- ◆ Members engaged with Catherine Fitzpatrick of Flequity Ventures to address key recommendations from the Centre for Women's Economic Safety working paper Designed to Disrupt: Reimagining general insurance products to improve financial safety.
- ◆ Allianz, Aon, IAG, Hollard, QBE Australia Pacific, Suncorp, TAL, and Zurich participated in our roundtable to develop more effective strategies to prevent the weaponisation of essential products and services in cases of domestic and family violence. This included a case study presented by Allianz CEO Richard Feledy.
- ◆ IAG, Hollard, QBE Australia Pacific, and Suncorp became early signatories to the Respect and Protect initiative, which aims to proactively prevent the weaponisation of insurance products and services as a tactic of coercive control and manipulation.
- ◆ QBE Australia Pacific provided a case study on implementing the framework presented in Playing Our Part: A Framework for Workplace Action on Domestic and Family Violence during a Member briefing on strategies to prevent domestic and family violence.
- ◆ The Group worked with Professor Didar Zowghi from CSIRO's Data61 (from the STEM and Health Group) to explore challenges and leadership opportunities in advancing gender equality and inclusion in artificial intelligence.
- ◆ Property Council of Australia's CEO, Mike Zorbias, and its COO, Jane Fitzgerald, and DEI Director Nicole Battley (Champions of Change Property Group) briefed the Insurance Group on sponsorship and the 500 Women in Property initiative, a collaborative effort to promote female talent and empower women to advance in the property sector.
- ◆ The Group engaged with the Council of Australian Life Insurers and the Insurance Council of Australia to share gender equality strategies and resources developed by the Coalition, supporting consistency and efficiency across the sector.
- ◆ Members contributed to the development of the 7 Switches framework, with Suncorp providing a case study on its work with the Australian Securities and Investments Commission to create legislative instruments to prevent insurers from sending certain disclosure documents in situations where there is a reasonable concern they could trigger family violence or economic abuse.

Insurance Group

- ◆ QBE Australia Pacific, Allianz, Aon, TAL and Zurich participated in developing, piloting and evaluating the Coalition's Gender Equality Dashboard.
- ◆ A sub group of members were also involved in the design and launch of Leaders in Insurance for Tomorrow (LiiFT) — an industry-wide mentoring program dedicated to attracting more women into insurance management positions. Founded by senior leaders including Group members Suncorp, QBE Australia Pacific, Aon, Insurance Australia Group and The Holland Insurance Company, the program matches mentors to mentees from founding organisations. There are plans to expand this program in the second year.

The Group welcomed new Members The Holland Insurance Company CEO Paul Fahey, TAL Group CEO and Managing Director Fiona Macgregor, and Insurance Australia Group, Jarrod Hill CEO CGU & WFI.

We thank Richard Enthoven (The Holland Insurance Company), Nick Hawkins (Insurance Australia Group), Brett Clark (TAL Dai-ichi Life Australia) and Andrew O'Hara (RAC Insurance) for their investment in and support for Champions of Change Coalition.

Standardised occupational categories for managers
(Source: Workplace Gender Equality Agency)

Key management personnel (KMP)

In line with Australian Accounting Standards Board AASB124, KMPs have the authority and responsibility for planning, directing and controlling the activities of an entity, directly or indirectly. This includes any director (executive or otherwise) of that entity.

A defining feature of KMPs is their influence is at the entity level. KMPs are likely to direct the strategic function of their section and are often functional heads, such as head of operations or head of finance. They represent at least one of the major function of an organisation and participate in organisation-wide decisions.

For corporate groups, KMPs will have authority and responsibility across the entire structure.

Head of Business (HOB)

HOB refers to:

- the CEO or equivalent of a subsidiary organisation within a corporate group
- an employee who has strategic control and direction over a substantial part of the business, but whose responsibilities do not extend across an entire corporate group, such as the head of a brand within a group.

Other executives/general managers

Other executives and general managers are responsible for a department or business unit within an entity. In large organisations, they may not take part in organisation-wide decisions with the CEO. Alternatively, they may take part in those decisions to share expertise or develop projects, but not have the entity-level or corporate group authority that would make them a KMP.

Senior managers

Senior managers are responsible for one or more functions, departments or outcomes for an entity. They are more likely to take part in both the strategic and operational sides of management, including resourcing, budget and assets (capital expenditure). Some of their decisions need approval from a higher-level manager.

Other managers

Other managers are responsible for operational functions. They oversee day-to-day work, following and enforcing their entity's defined parameters.

They may be responsible for strategies, policies and plans to meet business needs for their areas of work. They often manage time, financial and other resources, and assets such as facilities or IT infrastructure. They may also coordinate different functions or people. Line managers belong to this category, but supervisors do not.

Overseas Manager (OSM)

OSM is for use only for a manager within a global corporate group who:

- Reports into an overseas head office, and
- Is more senior than the domestic CEO/equivalent

If a manager reports overseas but is not more senior than the CEO/equivalent - categorise them using a different manager category from this list.

- You are not required to provide salary/remuneration information for overseas reporting managers – populate each salary/remuneration cell with 0
- If you are not part of a global corporate group you must not use this category

The Champions of Change Coalition includes CEOs, secretaries of government departments, non-executive directors and community leaders who believe gender equality is a major business, economic, societal and human rights issue. Established in 2010 by Elizabeth Broderick AO, our mission is inclusive gender equality across our workplaces by 2030 and a significant and sustainable increase in the representation of women in leadership.
